

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A medical image photographing management terminal in which, in the case where each photo studio is furnished with a medical image photographing management terminal without
5 constituting a large-scale system and even in the case where after ID information has been registered in one photo studio and the patient moves to another photo studio, the ID information can be used in the another photo studio. The medical image photographing management terminal includes an
10 input unit to be used for inputting ID information, a storage unit for storing information, and a control unit for controlling writing of the ID information into the storage unit and reading of the ID information from the storage unit, and permitting reference and editing of the ID information 15 from another medical image photographing management terminal in response to a request from the another medical image photographing management terminal.